Hi,

This is exactly the same place/website which I have been searching for. I love teaching and tutoring, especially online because you have a one-on-one contact with your student and so you can adjust your speed and style to his/her pace and his/her specific way of learning. I heard of this position after searching in the Google site with the keyword `Online Maths Tutoring`

I have been teaching various courses especially Maths as this is my most interesting subjects. In fact Maths subject have been my favorite since my childhood. Let me give some of my percentages in main grades. I secured 83%, 70% & 97% in 10th (Matriculation), 12th (Intermediate) & B.E.(Bachelor in Engineering) respectively. Since my Maths is too good, I have never rejected in Aptitude test, where you are not only supposed to solve the problems correctly but also solve it in quickest method.

I am ready to cope with answering any kind of question ranging from problems in algebra, trigonometry, height & distance, geometry, calculus, series of arithmetic and geometric progression, mathematical induction, binomial theorem, probability, statistics, quadratic equations, inequalities, complex numbers, differential equations, equations of 3-dimensional figures (sphere, plane, line), Mensuration (distance, area & volume)

Currently, besides searching for online tutoring job, I am working in 3 IT Pvt. Ltd., Bangalore, India

I have taught students in the community colleges. Here in India, We have to login in web4m and communityzero.com for tutoring the students online. I am well familiar with scribe and whiteboard. I really enjoy helping people understand math better.

Let me know how can I become a part of this organization and can serve.

regards,
Wikesh
