Details:

While studying for my Master`s degree at Oxford University I tutored some undergraduate English students. This experience taught me the importance of listening to the student and valuing their contribution. I feel that the tutor should learn from the tutoring experience as well as the student.

While working as a Community Support Worker in Herefordshire, I tutored service users in basic literacy and numeracy skills. This work included tutoring service users with learning disabilities and dyslexia. I developed a more patient tutoring style at this time.

I believe that English literature and language and the most exciting of subjects and that improving a student`s ability to communicate and articulate themselves is fundamental to their development and future success. I feel that I have been able to inspire students I have worked with in the past and make the subjects highly exciting.
