details:

i was once tutored in math during high school, so i understand how it feels to feel like your struggling.im very patient and want to make sure the student always feels confident in what they are doing. I have undertaken a BA, majored in English and Drama (including literature) and minored in Legal Studies and Media. i was offered to do an honours course this year, but decided to go directly to teaching. I believe just a little bit of one on one help not only helps the student improve their work, but improve their overall confidence.
