Details:

ABOUT ME: I am a fully qualified psychology tutor and psychologist. I am a very friendly, outgoing person and enjoy learning new things and solving problems. I am good at an odd range of things, from painting to carpentry to web design, and of course, tutoring.

MY EXPERIENCE:
I have been an associate tutor in psychology and science subjects for the past four years. I enjoy this immensely and find the challenge of different learning styles exciting. I teach from tiny children to adulthood, and often teach people considerably older than myself, which is wonderful. I have considerable experience with dyslexic students and tailor teaching to their learning styles. I am fully conversant in all Psychology Syllabi; AQA, OCR, and EdExcel.

QUALIFICATIONS: BSc 1st Hons Psychology University Sussex
MRes, PhD, Enhanced CRB disclosure. Associate Tutor Training 1 year.

MY APPROACH TO TUTORING:
I realise that everyone has a unique learning style and I modify any teaching that I give to the individual requirements. If you learn using visuals, these will be emphasised. If you learn under pressure, tests will be given. If you cannot process written work well, verbal learning will be emphasized. I understand that you might not fit into the stereotypical read-and-rehearse pattern and that's ok. I have a flair for making difficult concepts simple, and believe that if you cannot put your idea on the back of a postcard for a 6 year old, you don't know what you're talking about.

MY PRICE: £30 per hour, £20 per hour for online msn or skype style tuition.
