I am a 28 years old native French, holder of a master's degree in French law and I would be pleased to help you learning French whatever your level whether to prepare your GCSE or A level exams or just for personal practice through informal conversations.

I am organised and reliable. I am also very patient and approachable, willing to help and encourage my

This past year, I have been teaching French to several adults on a weekly basis. I am also currently teaching French to children.
My flexible approach enables me to focus on individual needs and ensure that they are effectively met. All lessons are tailored to individual needs.
I like giving a lots of information about everyday life in France: food, work, school, hobbies, geography, history and using authentic documents while teaching French for example articles of newspaper, video, lyrics of famous song

During the tuition I try as much as possible to speak only in French as I believe that once confidence is built up in this area, the writing, listening and reading follow more easily. Of course, I also provide plenty of reading, writing and listening exercises.

Having also worked in France as a trainee solicitor for 3 years I would be keen to offer my expertise in Business French. (specialised vocabulary, writing of professional letters, customs, presentations at
