Qualifikation:

I am an English tutor with 1,080 hours of paid tutoring experience. For the last six years I've been focused primarily on tutoring English for new and advanced learners alike. I work with students as young as six and as old as sixty to work on their speaking, listening, reading, and writing skills. Call today and book your 30 minute free online consultation. Meetings can be held online over zoom or Skype with the assistance of a shared Google Docs for an hourly rate of $30 or in person at your home. The cost for in person classes varies from $38-$60 for the first hour depending on whether you live 15 min - 1 hr away from me. You will receive homework and notes after every class. The more you review your homework and the more of it that you request, the more you will get out of your class with me.

Niveau:

Bachelors of Psychology

Details:

My experience teaching English as a Second Language constantly challenges me to teach more effectively. I've learned and refined a small set of exercises that I've found to be useful for most of the students I've taught. These are exercises for reading, speaking, listening, and writing. I should emphasize here that although I have a set of exercises that have worked for me, I am open to the idea of different teaching styles should a student request to be taught in a specific way. Aside from these exercises and how I implement them, I also believe I add value to a student's education by focusing teaching on the acknowledgement and correction of mistakes. As a tutor, I am committed to continuous learning for myself and work every class to provide sufficient homework to challenge a student. I complete all of the homework that I assign. As a tutor, I am committed to keeping a student engaged, educated, and satisfied with their learning experience.

Warum es mir Spaß macht:

I enjoy playing guitar, reading and working on my business

I enjoy spending time with friends, helping others, and driving and traveling to new places.
